ROCKVILLE

Fire forces 200 from homes

About 40 people were staying in a shelter at Rockville High School yesterday after a fire and power failure early in the day forced residents out of an apartment complex.

About 200 people were evacuated from the Forest Apartments on Baltimore Road. There were no reports of any injuries.

The fire damaged three buildings, and police were keeping people out of the apartment complex because power lines were still down.

HAVRE DE GRACE

Youths arrested at town carnival

Authorities made several arrests after a disturbance at Sunday night's Fourth of July carnival in Tydings Park.

Maj. John Van Gilder of the Havre de Grace police said the trouble broke out as the town's fireworks were ending. A large, disorderly crowd became aggressive, he said.

Local police needed backup from several other police agencies. In all, 60 officers were called in to shut down the carnival. It took more than an hour to restore order.

Maj. Van Gilder said those arrested included five or six juveniles and several young adults. One suspect attacked a police dog.

CHERRY HILL

Break-in suspect found eating ice cream

A burglary suspect was caught sitting behind a convenience-store counter eating ice cream.

Cynthia Donovan, 47, was arrested last week at the High's convenience store in Cherry Hill.

Cecil County sheriff's deputies responding to an early morning store alarm said they found Miss Donovan sitting behind the cashier's counter eating an ice cream cone.

BALTIMORE

Hostage-taker can stand trial, judge says

A Baltimore judge ruled yesterday that a man who barricaded himself for hours in a Baltimore police station with a civilian employee as hostage is competent to stand trial.

In April, Rodney Bethea, 21, was arrested on a drug violation and was being interviewed at the Northeast District police station. After the interview, he "attempted to hang himself in the interview room with a string," according to police charging documents.

When he failed, Mr. Bethea hit an officer with a halogen light bulb, striking him on the head with the light bulb, police said. The officer was treated for

LONG GREEN

Victim identified in reservoir drowning

Police yesterday identified the teenager who drowned in Loch Raven Reservoir on Sunday afternoon as Keith Cannon of Edgewood.

Police said the 17-year-old and a female companion had waded out to an island from a sandy clearing known as the Pines, using a rocky ledge underneath the water.

They were wading back to shore along a different route when the ledge disappeared, and Keith slipped under the water.

Swimming is prohibited in all three reservoirs in the county.

Petitions circulating for slots initiative

A group hoping to open a slot-machine gambling casino in Southeast has begun a petition campaign in hopes of putting an initiative on the November ballot.

The group, financed by U.S. Virgin Islands-based entrepreneur Shawn Scott, is enlisting out-of-town canvassers stationed at grocery stores and Metro stops. They earn $2 for each valid signature they get.

Organizers hope to put up to 3,500 slot machines near Martin Luther King Jr. Avenue and Good Hope Road Southeast and eventually similar sites throughout the city.

Mayor Anthony A. Williams and community activists are opposed to the plan.

Opponents are paying close attention to the effort because of widespread election-law violations that occurred during a similar push two years ago.

"We're aware of what happened last time," said Jeffrey D. Robinson, an attorney for slots promoters. "We're confident that this will be done right."

To put their initiative on the ballot, supporters must collect the signatures of at least 5 percent of the city's registered voters. They must include at least 5 percent of the registered voters in at least five of the eight wards.

A D.C. resident must be close enough to vote in the
